When spiritual needs are recognised and responded to as an integral part of person-centred care an essential contribution is made to peoples’ health and wellbeing.
Spiritual care is the provision of assessment, counselling, support and ritual in matters of a person’s beliefs, traditions, values and practices enabling the person to access their own spiritual resources.

Wellbeing is a state of balance or alignment in body, mind and spirit. In this state we feel content; connected to purpose, people and community; peaceful and energised; resilient and safe. In short we are flourishing.\(^1\)
